Walk If You Must On The Left Side Of The Highways

The safest place for pedestrians to walk along highways where there are no sidewalks is on the left of the road, Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of motor vehicles has announced, according to a statement made to a Herald representative by State Inspector Patrick S. O'Donnell of the Greenfield registry of motor vehicles.

Walking on the left so as to face approaching traffic is the official manner whether by day or night, and has the added advantage at night, Ryan declares, of letting pedestrians keep an eye on traffic and of aiding the driver to see pedestrians by the lights shining on their faces.

Oberammergau and the Passion Play of 1930.

It will be indeed a Musical Travelogue illustrated with masterpieces of Art and Photography.

Misses His Tools

Dr. Allen H. Wright says he is looking for some of the "tools of his profession" which he kindly loaned to some of our good people during the past five years and which have not found their way back to his office. During the present situation we need these things to loan to other people, he says.

To the editor of The Herald he said that the following articles were loaned and probably their return has been overlooked and forgotten. Four breast pumps, two pair crutches, three bedpans, seven hand towels, ten books on various medical subjects, one pair surgical scissors, three pair surgical forceps, two croupe kettles with equipment, three special wood splints, four wire splints, two hypodermic syringes and two irrigation rubber tubes.

The Week Of Prayer

The Commission on Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America have again designated the first week of the coming year as the "Week of Prayer" for churches. The exact dates and subjects are as follows:

Thursday, 5th—Marshalling Our Resources. Friday, 6th—A Witnessing Church. Saturday, 7th—The Secret of Prevailing Power with God and Men.

Will Consider Old China

The annual meeting of the Northfield Historical Society will be held in Dickinson Library Hall next Tuesday evening at 7.45. The reports of the secretary and treasurer will be presented. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected. An amendment to the By-laws will be proposed reducing the annual membership fee from one dollar to 50 cents. O that depression!

"Old China" will be the subject under consideration, led by Mrs. C. C. Stockbridge, who will also have specimens of colonial china on exhibition. Something will also be said about the society's program for the winter.

Pageant Of Quilts

The next regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club will be held Friday afternoon at three o'clock December 9th at Alexander Hall when a "Pageant of Quilts" will be presented under the arrangement of a Committee headed by Mrs. Carl Mason. An exhibit of quilts is also to be made.

Deer Season Opens Monday

Franklin county hunters will again try their skill hunting soon for the 1932 deer season will open next Monday at sunrise and continue through the week until sunset the following Saturday. The season will last one week only on account of changes in the law, instead of two weeks as in several years past for which many residents who love their roaming through the woodland are thankful.

Although there is still about a week for weather conditions to change, lack of snow will prove a handicap to the hunters. It is predicted larger numbers of sportsmen than in the past will be in the field this year owing to unemployment.

Game wardens report that from indications this fall, deer are fully as numerous now as in the past but are located in certain sections of the county instead of being generally distributed as in some years.

Hunters will also find themselves more handicapped than ever before in the territory which is open for shooting, for during the past year large areas in the county have been posted against hunting, some of the locations having furnished many of the kills in former years.

Game wardens throughout the state are preparing to patrol these districts rigidly throughout the week and are already keeping watch for hunters who attempt to start shooting before the season opens. The usual regulations will be in force this year, each hunter being required to have a license, report the kill and use a shot gun or bow and arrow only in securing deer. Considerable land about Northfield is posted and hunters should beware of the trespass signs.

South Church

A NEW STEP

Knowing what false ideas are held about the Unitarian Church by those who know nothing about it, this local church does not wish to be in the same attitude toward other powerful movements in the world of religion today. Hence it is inaugurating a plan by which Northfield will be able to hear representative speakers of other religious movements, which are steadily advancing in influence and power in our modern world. One of these is the Bahai Movement. Next Sunday December 4th at the local Unitarian church 10.45 a.m. there may be heard an ardent exponent of Bahaiism, Mrs. Howard Struven, who will speak on "The Bahai Movement's Contribution to the Solution of Modern World Problems."

The Church School will present the annual devotional pageant, "The Nativity" or "The Christmas Pageant of the Holy Grail" Sunday Evening, December 18th.

The annual fair sale and supper of the Alliance women will be in progress this Friday afternoon and evening, December 2nd in the church vestry. Supper will be served at 6.30 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

Boy Scouts Announce A Court Of Honor Town Hall Wednesday

The Court of Honor to be conducted by the Franklin Council of the Boy Scout movement in the Town Hall next Wednesday evening December 7 at 8 o'clock will be the most ambitious function of the movement ever staged in Northfield. Judge Philip H. Ball of Greenfield will be chairman. Others comprising the court will be Willard O. Seibert, secretary; Rev. J. B. Whiteman, Willis Weisbrod, F. Deane Avery and Henry Curtis, district commissioners; Earle Looker, president of the Hampshire-Franklin Council, and Albert D. Norton, big scout executive, both of Northampton, will also attend and take part.

The court will award second and first class badges and merit badges; also star, life and eagle badges. A scout must obtain any five merit badges to earn a star badge; ten merit badges, including some that are prescribed, for a life badge; and 21 merit badges, 11 of which are prescribed, for an eagle badge. Our local Troop 9 will have several scouts up for merit and other badges.

Troop 2 of Greenfield will present an investiture before the Court of Honor opens officially. This is to give the audience an opportunity of witnessing the initiation of new scouts. It is quite a formal affair.

Mr. Earle Looker is visiting Northfield for the first time. He is probably known to many in town as the author of "The White House Gang," which he wrote and illustrated two years ago. It is an intimate story of Theodore Roosevelt and his sons and their young friends while he was president. The hero of the book is Quentin Roosevelt, who was killed in France in 1918 when in the aviation service. Earle Looker was one of Quentin's gang, and they had as much fun in the White House as any gang of boys in this town or elsewhere; and they were just about as full of devilment, with President Roosevelt as an ally and playmate. Mr. Looker has a second new book just out, "Colonel Roosevelt—Private Citizen." There is much new matter that throws light on Roosevelt's motives and character and actions before and after he became president. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt wrote Mr. Looker:

"My dear L. With 'The White House Gang' you gave a picture of Mr. Roosevelt's personal sympathy and understanding, but with this new book you have so exactly expressed the truth of his last great contribution to his country that I wish to tell you again of my appreciation. Faithfully yours, Edith K. Roosevelt."

Mr. Looker is a writer by profession, and serves as president of the local scout council as a volunteer.

Admission to this function will be free. Here's a chance for parents and other to get a line on the scout movement, and for other boys and girls to see what it stands for in its worldwide aspects. There will be a large attendance of scouts in uniform from all the troops in the Franklin County district. It will be a lively evening around Town Hall.

Red Cross Drive Ends In Northfield

The campaign for members and funds for the American Red Cross in Northfield ended last week on Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Charles E. Leach, chairman of the local committee of energetic workers, have made the annual canvass and are ready to forward their funds and report to the County Chapter. The sum of $416.00 was secured divided as follows:

346 members ($1.00) $346.00
3 contributing ($5.00) $15.00
Contributions $55.00
Last year there was secured 395 memberships and a total of $504.00 which was turned into the general fund. It will be seen that Northfield did not quite reach the quota for the figures of last year, but the results nevertheless are very satisfactory in our present depression period.

Our schools all had a chance to contribute this year and Pine St. School had the honor of giving the most, obtaining the 100% poster. No. 3 District School had 100% and the Upper Grades in district No. 4 almost reached that mark. The chairman desires to thank all those who helped collect this money for their hearty co-operation, and the townspeople for their support of this cause, also to Mr. Baxter for his cordial assistance.

Rotary Club Here?

There has been some consideration recently by interested parties of the formation of a Rotary Club for Northfield to hold its sessions weekly at the noon hour with luncheon at the Northfield Hotel. Already those who have been approached have responded most favorably but it is doubtful if organization will be attempted before spring. Rotary is a most valuable association to any community. It binds its members together in a spirit of loyal friendships and devotion making for the advancement and success of each for all and all for each. We shall hear more of the matter later.

Well Known Man Arrested For Larceny

Mr. Richard B. Price well known to many Northfield people as a former railroad man, specializing in transportation and station agent in the Boston & Maine Railroad at Northampton, and later in charge of the Travel Department of the Northampton National Bank is under arrest in New York City by federal authorities. Price had been sought for some time on a warrant from the United States district court at Boston, where he was secretly indicted on a charge of larceny of sums aggregating "less than $4600" in his capacity as manager of the travel bureau. Price disappeared from Northampton about Aug. 1, this year.

He will be arraigned before the federal court in Boston. It was stated at the bank Monday that Mr. Price "resigned" on Aug. 1, 1932, assuming the bank that his accounts were in perfect order; also stating that he was going to open a travel agency of his own whereupon the bank closed the travel department.

Price left town shortly after that date and since then it has been impossible to locate him. Audits by various companies represented by the travel department revealed funds accounted for in an aggregate amount of "less than $4600." The bank was fully protected by its bond covering all employees and has been fully reimbursed it was stated.

Many years ago before going to Northampton Price was the railroad station agent at Bernardston.

When arraigned in the Federal District Court at Boston Monday before Judge Lowell he pleaded not guilty on a charge of misapplication of bank funds. He furnished $1,000 bail pending trial of the case.

Polishing Papa Was Decided Success

A crowded house greeted the High School players in their presentation of "Polishing Papa" by Clark Willard in the Town Hall, Wednesday evening. The performance was most creditable in every particular, the story and plot most interesting and the portrayal of the characters especially fine. The young folks acted their parts well and by many it was said to have been the best production yet acted in Town Hall. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Stevens, housekeeper for Sidney Smith, Christine Gray; Marie, a maid, Catherine Saczawa; Sidney Smith, a rich sausage manufacturer, Victor Vaughan; Samuel Karmen, an advertising solicitor, Robert Shearer; Arthur Smith, eager to invest his Dad's money, Clayton Glazier; Jane Smith, Arthur's sister, also possessed of illusions, Dorothy Stone; Dick Brainerd, a young attorney, Harold Briemaster; Rose Parker, who was in love with Dick Brainerd; Reginald Dabney an English Lord, Norman Miller, Peggy Samson, a friend of the Smith's, Laura Martineau.

The entire proceeds after expenses will go into the Treasury of the Senior Class for the Washington trip.

"Spanish Moon" At Bernardston

"Spanish Moon" the Musical Comedy to be staged by the P. T. A. Community Club and Grange at the Bernardston Town Hall, December 14, and 15 at 8 o'clock is arousing the utmost enthusiasm among the cast which is being recruited from ranks of local people and rehearsals are being held every day with Miss Genevieve Pare, professional director, from the Rogers Producing Company of Ohio who are known for their successful presentations everywhere of high class amateur shows.

Checks for the Christmas Savings Club of the Northfield National Bank will be sent out next week. The new Christmas Savings for 1933 will start immediately. Arrange for your card and deposits as soon as possible.

Northfield Did Well For Grenfell Bazaar

In word received by Mrs. A. G. Moody from Lady Grenfell, appreciation is expressed for the co-operation given the Grenfell work in the Bazaar recently held in Boston. The Northfield booth netted the sum of $425.00 and the total receipts of the bazaar were over $5,000. With this money already over 2,000 bushels of wheat are on their way to Labrador. For the Northfield booth the 4-H clubs of town made notable contributions and many individual citizens did likewise.

Mount Hermon co-operated under the leadership of a committee consisting of Mrs. Roy Hatch, Mrs. Deming, Mrs. Platt and Mrs. S. H. Norton. The Seminary students contributed many articles. Graduates of the Northfield seminary, including a group from the Junior league in Boston helped with the Northfield booth.

November Brought 7 Inches Of Rain

Total rainfall of 7.06 inches during November established a record for that month as being the fourth wettest of any in a period covering the past 10 years. It now appears that the total rainfall for 1932 may equal or exceed that of 1931, although on Sept. 1, the total precipitation recorded was 7.59 inches below that of the same period in 1931. Heavy rainfalls during the past two months have increased the total for this year which now stands at 40.34 inches on Dec. 1 as compared to a total of 38.88 inches at this time in 1931.

Early Christmas Mailing Suggested

Uncle Sam advises early mailing of Christmas packages if relatives and friends are to have their gifts in time for the holiday. Post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the co-operation of the public. There will be no mail delivery on Sunday or Monday, Dec. 25 and 26.

Speaks To Students

Rev. Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago, brother of Rev. James Gordon Gilkey, D. D. of Springfield, addressed Mount Hermon School at the vespers service last Sunday on the subject, "The Tree that Owns Itself." The speaker made a comparison between a certain tree in Athens, Georgia, which has been deeded to itself and a human being.

"The meaning of education," Dr. Gilkey declared, "is to surround oneself with an area of self-support and self-possession so that one can own oneself. The big question is: how large is the circle that is owned, and is that circle increasing? Economically, students are supported largely by others. At Mount Hermon, however, men are taught to support themselves to a large extent."

"How large is the area of intelligence, of moral and spiritual support and possession? Character is the slow and patient acquisition of moral self-support on which a man can hold himself no matter what winds may blow. How big is the area of religious self-support? In this case it is not the width that is so important as the depth of the soil."

Just as no tree really owns itself altogether, so is there no completely self-made man. The tree depends upon moisture, sunshine, and many other things which it does not own. Every man has received much from his parents, his school, and his friends. He owes it to others to give his best to others in return."

Elder of Northampton, state president of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, will be the speaker at a dinner meeting of the Franklin County B. and P. club at the Weldon hotel Tuesday at 6.30 p.m. She will talk on "Stepping Stones to the 10 Year Objective." Rees Evangelistic Meetings Close Religious Convictions Are Deepened Church Ties Are Strengthened

The three weeks series of Evangelistic meetings conducted at the Congregational Church by Rev. and Mrs. Milton A. Rees of Rochester, N. Y., have been brought to a close and the results have been carefully observed in a quickening of religious thought and activity in church circles. Several persons will be added to the membership rolls of the church and a new intensive church life will be begun with many.

Mr. and Mrs. Rees left by car for Conway, N. H., early Tuesday morning where they are to begin a campaign next Sunday. They will be in Boston in January, and back in Maine in February. During his stay in Northfield, Mr. Rees delivered forty seven addresses.

Last Sunday morning the regular church service was held with Dr. Rees delivering the sermon. There was special music and the large audience listened attentively to the discourse and participated in the service.

The men's meeting on Sunday afternoon was well attended. Dr. Rees spoke on "Your Own Detective." The detective is to be found in Numbers 22:23. Be sure your SIN will find you out! "Vigilant love," said Dr. Rees, moves step by step with sin and aims to win out.

Dr. Verne L. Smith of the Greenfield Methodist church offered prayer at this meeting.

On Sunday evening Dr. Rees announced the winner in a contest in which young people were invited to prepare books illustrating the seven good and seven bad habits of which he had talked to them at earlier children's meetings. The prize was a New Testament. It was won by Helen Durgin, daughter of Russell Durgin, secretary of the Tokyo (Japan) Y.M.C.A., who is at present home on furlough.

Musical features at this gathering were a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Porter and a selection by the church male quartet.

Seminary students were present from Weston and Gould halls, and Mr. Watson brought a dozen boys from Mount Hermon.

At the close of his address on the words of Lord Jesus in Matthew 25:46, "These shall go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into life eternal," Dr. Rees asked all in the audience who had received and confessed Jesus Christ as Saviour after the age of 60 years to rise. Not one responded. Nor did any one rise aged 50 to at conversion. One each rose for the ages 40-50 and 30-40, and seven from 20-30 years old. But when he asked all who had come to Christ before the age of 15 to rise about three-quarters of the audience stood up.

Monday, the closing day, witnessed an All Day Conference on Evangelism with delegations in at the Franklin County Hospital and is making a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Witte are enjoying their home at Southem Pines N. C. where they will remain during the winter.

Rev. William Anderson of Greenfield conducted a devotional half-hour beginning at 10.30 a.m. and opening the morning session Rev. Arthur V. Allen of the First Baptist Church of Springfield followed with an address on "Prayer and Evangelism." Resuming after lunch at one o'clock A. P. Pitt was called on for a five-minute report on the publicity used in the three weeks Rees crusade. Deacon A. M. Wright spoke moving words of his own experience in leading certain persons to Christ. Rev. W. Stanley came followed with an address on the fundamentals of Scriptural evangelism. At 2 o'clock Dr. William S. Mitchell, pastor of the new million dollar Gothic cathedral of Methodism in Worcester, gave a stirring address on "The Pastor and Evangelism." Dr. Rees came next with "The Tragedy of Evangelism." Opportunity was given throughout the sessions for questions and discussion.

The sessions were held in the vestry. The maximum attendance was about 200, among whom were thirty or forty pastors from towns within convenient autoing distance. The pastors expressed their high appreciation of the conference.

At the closing service on Monday evening Dr. Rees expressed his thanks for the co-operation he and Mrs. Rees had received throughout the meeting, especially in prayer. He spoke appreciatively of their enjoyable stay at the hotel, and made two requests: that the people stand by Mr. Carne as he carries forward the influences and reaps the harvest of the crusade, and that the people be fervently loyal to Jesus Christ. Miss Dorothy Lawrence was named for her constant service at the piano, and Mrs. Ralph Forsaith who supervised the preparation of tea and coffee for friends who took supper in the vestry between meetings.

The opening exercises on Monday evening were in charge of Deacon Wright. S. E. Walker read the Scripture portion. John H. Marcy led in prayer. Four laymen followed answering the question, "What has evangelism meant to me?" They were Russell Roberts, Louis Webster, Clifford Field, and A. P. Pitt. One of the most valuable features of the crusade has been getting lay men and women on to their own feet in testimony.

Rev. and Mrs. Gray of the South Vernon Advent Church sang a duet, "I've Found a Friend."

Mr. Carne invited all who had signed cards making the Trinitarian Church their preference as a church home, also those willing to help in follow-up work, to attend the Thursday evening prayer meeting. Over 30 churches were named in the cards that were signed at the meetings.

EDITORIAL

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the King, behold, there came wise men from the East to Jerusalem, saying:

"Where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the East, and are come to worship him!"

And now we, in Northfield, may also follow His star and worship Him in truth and justice to ourselves and our fellow-men. Will we in Northfield do it?

Nothing has done more toward encouragement of home building and a fuller, happier, more leisurely domestic life, than electricity.
That statement needs no argument—statistics back it up.

In ten years the number of homes receiving electric service has doubled and the total is now about 20,000,000. The benefits of abundant, low priced power have been extended into farming districts and thinly populated regions of all kinds through the development of great interconnected systems.
Perhaps it is in this achievement—the progress of the home—that electricity will at last be judged. There it has broken bonds that bound us for hundreds of years and released time once given to laborious tasks, to other uses. Domestic evolution and electric power are almost synonymous terms.

A great deal of commendation is noted by the lovers of nature and natural things throughout America of the effort by many local communities to plant and rear a living Community Christmas tree. These trees are generally of the Norway Spruce variety and when planted in a conspicuous location can be easily decorated and illuminated each Christmas season. It seems a pity that each year some good, worthwhile tree has to be cut down for a few days service to say nothing of the time and labor wasted in its erection and removal and then finally it becomes an eyesore with its dead greens waiting transportation to the rubbish heap. This is not just a story but the experience of what has happened in Northfield each Christmas tide. And only last year we may remember that the tree placed on the greensward at the head of Warwick avenue as an expression of joy and gratification, brought disgust and complaint before its belated removal. Why not think the matter—and plant a living tree that will be a joy the whole year through. The town hall, the high school, the churches all provide good lawns for the appropriate planting and decorating of a living tree.

In the midst of all our preparations let us pause for a moment and think how simple, how lovely, how fresh and unspoiled would be a Living Tree. Here is the Spirit of Christmas. It is the Spirit of Life and Love and Beauty—a young, upright, Living Tree!

Not only are the provisions for this Christmas lavish but the prices are lower than they have ever been before. . . . due to foresighted buying on the part of the stores before prices began their steady rise. Reading the advertisements in this paper is impressive of how far your gift dollars stretch this year. Take advantage of these exceptional values. It will mean finer gifts for your friends and greater economy to you.

Look over carefully the advertisements of the merchants whose advertising is in The Herald in each issue and give them your support and patronage.

The tumult and the shouting have died. The speeches have all been made. The votes have been counted.

The campaign is history, and it's time to go back to work.

The great problems of today are not political problems. They are economic, financial, social. They are completely nonpartisan. All any President can do to solve them is to give his very best efforts, according to his information to assist the people with the power of government. Legislation will be passed, official suggestions will be offered—but no matter how good they are, they will be worthless unless the people stand shoulder to shoulder and work for their own salvation.

Almost all observers agree that the bottom of depression has been touched. The work of restoration has begun. It will be a long, an arduous work, requiring the attention of each of us. Partisanship must be forgotten. Labels must be forgotten. Never in the history of the country has non-political leadership, and non-political thought, been so essential to the future.

So—back to work!

Worthwhile Preachments

Sir Wilfred Grenfell
His Meaning of Prayer

In a sermon recently preached by Rev. David Nelson Beach in the First Congregational Church at Springfield the life of Sir Wilfred Grenfell was used as an example of the co-ordination of work with prayer effort.

"Here is a man," he said, referring to Dr. Grenfell, "whose heart has outgrown the divisions which war within us. How has he done it? Here is a man who helps individuals as only a surgeon and a saint can help. He is as ready to give immediate relief to human needs as he is to aid in economic reorganization on the bitter La-zor coast. He is a perfect citizen of his own country, knighted by his king. At the same time he belongs to all the world, and is binding the peoples to the earth closer together.

"The man is a text and the text is a man. To the Hebrew the heart was the seat of the intelligence; to us it is the seat of the emotions.
We should combine both head and heart. In Dr. Grenfell science and religion are not two, but one. He thinks with his feelings and he feels with his thoughts. Faith and reason shed a single light. Like Moody himself, Grenfell began as an evangelist and is now an educator, and there is no conflict in either man between the two processes.

"We need to recognize the divisions between and within the nations, in the community in many homes and within our own hearts.
There is an urgent need today for integrity within the family of nations, within our own nation, in the community, in our homes, in our hearts. Divided individuals and a divided world are mutual cause and effect. Both as peoples and as people we need to unite our hearts to learn the profound truth, known to engineer and moralist alike. There is no true freedom except in obedience.

"The psalmist of old and a modern saint like Dr. Grenfell would differ only as to whether 'the fear of God' or 'the love of God' was the better phrase. Behind the phrase is a common experience.
For 1900 years at least, there has been no conflict in the Christian's experience of God. Awe and aspiration belong together. Love and fear are two sides of the same shield.

"The test and testimony of truth is life. You, too, can pray.
'Unite my heart to fear and to love thy name.' If you follow your prayer into your practice, you will translate the beauty of worship into the beauty of work. Your life will swing out into a new dimension. You yourself, your home, your community, your nation,
your world—all will be the gainers."

UNCLE SI PREPARES FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas time is gettin' near,
That happy shinin' season.
The young 'uns round her'll have a tree

Or I'll sure know th' reason.
Some on 'em won't have much this year,
From folks that's not been workin'.
But heck! I sold my harvest good,
So I got no cause fer shirkin'.

We'll go down ter Sim Allen's store,
And see what he's got comin'.
Then git that mail house catalog,
And kind of set things hummin'.
We'll buy some good warm mits and socks

Some overshoes and leggin's,
'Sides lots of sweets and fol-de-rols,
Them young 'uns won't go beggin'.

Them stingy fellers sure is wrong,
They're awful self deceivin'.
Givin' sesh a lot more fun
Than grabbin' and receivin'.
Them chilluns be jest tickled pink,
It keeps yer insides singin',
Ter have a finger in the pie,
When Christmas bells is ringin'.

But, Mandy, one thing makes me mad,
I wish they'd be perliter
'Bout hackin' down my hemlock trees,

'Twould seem a heap sight righter,
Them fellers jest go in my woods
And do their alfired nosin', Round little spruce and sproutin' pine

Ter me its plumb imposin'.

They pulls my laurel up by roots,
Ter do their Christmas wreathin'.
If they'd jest ask I'd give 'em some

But I don't like deceivin'.

They've nigh on stripped my corner lot
Of purty green things growin',
Jest guess I'll write a "keep off" sign

Ter teach them better knowin'.

But then, O shaw! we'll fix that I've saved a tree, a winner!
We'll set it up right in our yard,
Then serve a Christmas dinner,
And feed the hungry 'till they're full,

With aid from our good neighbors,
They're first class, good hearted folks

Ter help with Christian labors.

Course 'tis alright fer high toned ones
To git a card of greetin',
But bags of food and loads of wood

Is fine when life's defeatin'.
Them that's got must share their bit

So smiles will be a beamin',
And weepin' eyes will see agin
That Christmas star a gleamin'.

THE COMMON ROAD
We are brothers who travel a great common road
And the journey is easy for none.

We must succor the weary and lift
on the load
Of the pilgrim whose courage is done.

May we deal with them all on our way to the West
With a mercy that never shall fail,
And lie down to our dreams with a conscience at rest
When we come to the end of the trail.

When the Days Are Growing Brief
Oh, the opulence of Autumn
When the days are growing
brief,

And the brown is on the meadows
And the red is on the leaf;
When Midas walks among us—
Or his spirit—once again,
And lays his magic finger
On the corn and leaves and grain!

Oh, the glory of the Autumn
In imperial pomp arrayed!
Such as artist never painted;
Such as never brush portrayed.
With the retrospective robin
Sing all that used to be,
And the murmur of the crickets
Like the swelling of the sea.

Oh, the dreams that come in Autumn
When the days are growing
brief!

And the barberries have ripened
And the yellow's in the sheaf;
When the cardinal flower is scarlet

By the river's burnished breast,
And the spell of peace unbroken
Lulls the spirit into rest.

When the gentian, fringed and lovely,
Blossoms where the daisy grew,
And the violets have vanished
From the places which they knew

And we feel our exultation
Tempered with a gentle grief,
For the afternoon is waning
And the days are growing brief.

'By Way Of Love'

A Review of a book by a Native of Vernon, Vt.

A little book has just been published by the Driftwind Press with the above title, the work of Owen Redington Washburn. It is in attractive printing and binding and the contents are in keeping. There are about forty sonnets and numbers of lyrics. The sonnet is a favorite form of poetic expression with some, and Mr. Washburn handles it with a fine touch in themes fitted to the title of the book. There are ten suggested by Solomon's "Song of Songs." The author excels in the lyric quality of his poetry and there are in the book some lyric pieces which will be the delight of readers and recorders for many years to come.

Mr. Washburn was born in Vernon, Vt., just across the line from Northfield. He has been a lecturer and was once senator in the Pennsylvania State Senate and is now pastor of the Congregational Church at Orford, N. H.

He dedicates his book to Mrs.
Washburn, who has secured the copyright, and the picture of the author is a frontispiece.

Mrs. Washburn, it will be of interest to state, is a sister of Hon. John Gale of Guilford and Brattleboro, Vt.

The book may be had by addressing the publisher, Walter J.
Coates, North Montpelier, Vt. The price is $1.00.

There is much to please in the book. As a sample of the lyric pieces, illustrating the skill and power of the poet in this kind of poetic expression, this poem is selected:

WHEN SUMMER DIED
There fell a hush upon all wooded spaces

Where slow winds died and first fall flowers were fair:
Where golden bees found calm and sunny places,
Where asters bloomed and apple scents were rare.

"Summer is dead," lamented all the willows;

So sweet she was, with clover and with corn,"
"She is not dead," in voices like far billows

The pine trees said, "She yet will be reborn."

"Oft," said the winds, "in wandering o'er these mountains
We saw her bier upon the fragrant sod.

But, waked by songs and spring's free-flowing fountains,
She rose anew and all her pathways trod."

Sounded in murmurs woodland whispers, calling;
"Come unto us, to peace where silence dwells.

Come unto us as golden leaves are falling,
To summer's brookside bowers and shadowed dells!"

"She is not here!" the hermit thrush was singing
In bell-like notes as twilight lured
the night;

The wedding echoed, to her farewell ringing
An end to Summer's reign and our delight.

But still unseen, her perfect splendor keeping,
She waits a time when earth shall bloom again. . . .

Bring robes of song to cover her while sleeping Till Spring shall call her through the April rain!

Prest-Elect Roosevelt Is Tall Cedar Member

On the west bank of the historic Hudson River, Palisades, 83 miles south of Albany, N. Y., lies the little town of Newburg, which was the theater of many important events in the Revolutionary War, and was especially famous for its stone mansion, "Washington's Headquarters," now owned by the State of New York, wherein the American army was formally disbanded on the evening of June 23, 1783.

Here in this historic village just 147 years later, on the evening of April 26, 1930, members of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a Masonic playground, gathered around the table of the Palatine Hotel and offered a "dry toast to the next President of the United States," one Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of the State of New York. The gathering was that of national and local officers of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon just prior to their spectacular ceremonial planned for the evening in the Newburgh Free Academy Auditorium. At this event the honorary degree of "Tall Cedar at Sight" was conferred upon Franklin Delano Roosevelt, together with the presentation of a life membership certificate by Greenwood Forest No. 81, of Warwick, N. Y., Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

The honor of being made "Tall Cedar at Sight" is a rare occurrence in the order and the conferring of the degree in this manner on Governor Roosevelt was regarded as one of the outstanding events in Cedarism since a like honor was conferred upon the late President Warren G. Harding by Evergreen Forest No. 49 at Millford, Del., while he was President.

Others prominent in public life who have been given the honorary degree of "Tall Cedar at Sight" are: Governors John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, Norman S. Case of Rhode Island, Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts; U. S. Senators, James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, and Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware.

Six weeks after assuming office as President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt will be given opportunity to review a large parade of the thirty-first annual Supreme Forest Session to be held in the Capital City, May 17, 18, 19 and 20, 1933—the largest Tall Cedar convention and gathering ever held by the order—at which it is expected there will be assembled in its participation many thousands of members, their families and Masonic friends.

Golden Rule Week Begins December 11th

International Golden Rule Week, December 11-18, comes mid-way between the feast of Thanksgiving, when we thank beneficent Providence for our abundant harvests, and the feasts of Christmas and New Year's when we proclaim joy to the world and good will to all men.

Between these feasts those who are employed, who have an abundance of food, and who believe in the Golden Rule are asked to indulge in a rational constructive fast and to share their substance with some of the millions who have neither harvests nor employment and for whom there can be no Christmas or New Year's joy except as we practice as well as preach the Golden Rule.

In previous years Golden Rule Sunday was observed in the interests of orphans and underprivileged children of foreign lands. The observance is now extended to Golden Rule Week and directed for the benefit of underprivileged children of the unemployed wherever the need seems greatest.

The observance is by request of the Golden Rule Foundation with headquarters in New York.

National Grange Favors 18th Amendment

The National Grange at its recent convention has gone on record as favoring the 18th Amendment. The following resolution is explanatory of its position.

"We believe that any plan to again legalize intoxicating beverages without bringing back the saloons and all their evils is foredoomed to failure.

"Millions of our people are in need of bread rather than intoxicating liquor; therefore be it resolved that we are opposed to repeal of the eighteenth amendment or to repeal or modification of the Volstead act."

A Bad Record

Despite the plea for careful driving by Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of motor vehicles, after a week's terrific toll of 31 killed. The week previous Massachusetts motorists ran up a total of 23 dead in motor accidents during the week just closed, giving a grand total of 54 deaths in two weeks. The 23 deaths was the same number as in the same period last year.

Chevrolet Progress

Editorial comment inspired by the announcement of the Chevrolet Motor Company that for the third consecutive year it is pushing ahead vigorously with its new annual program regardless of general conditions, so that its plants and workers may be kept continuously busy, has appeared in numerous publications throughout the country. Typical of many is the following leading editorial in The Iron Age, one of the nation's most authoritative business publications:

"Never has there been a keener necessity than at present for the manufacturer to sell his product intelligently if he desires to retain or further entrench his position. With competitors crowding upon him in an effort to secure a goodly slice of the available business, his success or failure is likely to depend on his ability to carry out a well-planned selling program based on a thorough knowledge of his market, on the conviction that he has a superior product and on the courage to go ahead at a time when others are hesitant."

"The Chevrolet Motor Company has never once during the depression relaxed its sales effort. It has kept everlastingly at the job of selling Chevrolet cars, the result being that it is today in the most favorable comparative position in its 21-year history. In the past three years its plants have not closed for a continuous shutdown exceeding 30 days, and then only during the regular annual interval between closing out of old models and the introduction of new ones. In announcing a program calling for the manufacture of 50,000 new cars in the next few weeks, W. S. Knudsen, Chevrolet's president, struck a note to which every industrial executive might profitably give ear. He declared that Chevrolet is going ahead with this program because it feels that 'satisfactory sales volume will reward any desirable product rightly priced and ably merchandised.'"

—The Iron Age, Nov. 24.

Motor Truck Regulation

At the recent session of the Maine delegation to the New England conference at Boston W. A. Wheeler, representative of the Maine Central railroad, discussed the subject of motor truck regulation, a subject which has been brought forward in Berkshire County during the past few months.

Emphasizing the fact that railroads are subject to a tremendous amount of restrictive legislation, Mr. Wheeler pointed out that they own and maintain their own rights of way yet pay heavy taxes thereon; that they pay taxes on their property in the towns through which they pass; and that they provide employment for many people, not only at their terminals, but all along their route. On the other hand, he declared, truck transportation companies are subject to little, and in most states, no restrictive legislation; they use the state highways for their right-of-way and those highways are maintained at state expense through the use of the ordinary taxpayer's money; they pay few taxes other than excise taxes in the towns from which they are registered, and state registration fees and gasoline taxes; and they provide little employment except at their terminals.

Dwelling upon the possible results of having all freight carried by trucks, Mr. Wheeler declared that statisticians have figured it out that "if the freight of this country were handled by highway, then, no matter where one might be, on any improved highway in the United States, he would meet a five-ton truck every thirty seconds, day and night. And wouldn't the driver of a pleasure car enjoy that?"

"In the four states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, in 1931, the total revenue from motor vehicles—property tax, gas tax, registration and licenses—was, in round figures, $45,000,000. In the same year these states spent on their highways and motor vehicle departments, $93,000,000—more than twice the revenue. Who paid the difference? Well, the railroads helped to provide a highway for their competitors—and you and I as taxpayers, did our part. Except for the heavy commercial vehicle our bill would have been much less," he asserted.

"With the facilities for operation furnished them at the taxpayers expense with no restrictions as to their methods of doing business, is it any wonder that trucks can, in some cases, transport goods at lower rates than can the railroads? While railroads are tax producers, highway carriers are tax consumers," he declared.

The Range Of Taxes

Since reports are in for all towns and cities in the State of Massachusetts the Tax Commissioner announces that $10.50 to $75 is the range of local tax assessments or an average of 66 cents above last year.

The official list of rates shows Gosnell has the lowest this year, $10.50, and Millville the highest, $75. The latter is due to the fact that the state board of tax appeals upheld the contention of two Millville manufacturing concerns that they had been overassessed.

Commissioner Long said that the comparatively small increase in the average rate of $80.46 this year from $29.80 last year—was due to the fact that municipalities refrained from spending any more than they had to, whereas in other years, loose rein was held on outlay.

Newton has the lowest rate of any of the 39 cities of the state, $25.

At a meeting of the local fire department Friday night, R. I. Engine hall it was unanimously voted to conduct the annual Firemen's ball Jan. 20 in the town hall.

Good Driving Points

A representative of The Herald was talking with Mr. Miles Morgan of The Morgan Garage the other day and he was suggesting several good driving points for motorists. He said that a good motorist:— Keeps his mind on his driving. Keeps in the line of traffic. Anticipates what others will do. Watches out for pedestrians, particularly children.

Slows down at schools, crossings, and intersections.

Signals the car behind when changing his course.

Knows the feeling of having his car under control.

Obeys traffic regulations, signals and signs.

Has his car inspected regularly.

No Beer Before Xmas

Those in Massachusetts who are hoping much from the short session of Congress and anticipating legal beer by Christmas or New Year's are doomed to disappointment. They may get their beer, but they won't get it within the law.

Congress may legislate away to its heart's content. The Volstead Act may be modified. Some states may reap the benefits of lifted restrictions, but not Massachusetts. This Commonwealth will be, legally at least, as dry as a bone and nothing can be done about it.

To the potential beer-consuming population of Massachusetts the state's liquor laws make a doubtful reading. For the man who wants this beverage in any degree of potency, say about 5 per cent alcoholic content, the lid is clamped down tight. In this Commonwealth, congressional action will not be followed immediately by lifted steins, far from it. Much spade work will have to follow. It will even be some time before a mild brew of less than 3 per cent alcoholic content will be available.

This situation is due not to the legislature, but to the people of Massachusetts, who in 1919, through initiative petition put a curb on beer drinking in the Bay State. By their action, which incidentally did not have the approval of then Gov. Calvin Coolidge, any beverage containing more than 2.75 alcoholic content by weight was outlawed. Anything stronger in alcoholic content than that was restricted to retail sale by druggists for medicinal purposes only on the prescription of a physician.

High School Notes

Wednesday afternoon a Thanksgiving program was given with Verna Clough presiding. The program consisted of numbers by the High School orchestra under the direction of Mr. Farrell, readings by Eleanor Long, Ralph Reed, Marianne Leach, Rena Tyler, and Barbara Cota. The student body sang "America, the Beautiful."

Agnes Plotszyk has left us to go back to Pennsylvania.

Because of the large number of deficiency slips this month, it has been necessary to have a deficiency period.

Truth Applied

With the advent of the season's first skating at Mount Hermon School this week, the pastor, Rev. Lester P. White, Wednesday spoke in chapel on "Religion as an anti-freeze solution." "I am thankful," he stated, "that I have a religion that can stand a lot of exposure."

Pointing out that in four attitudes there is no place for slowing up or freezing at present, the speaker declared toward oneself it is necessary to be courageous; and toward others there should be an exchange of good news instead of gossip. God should not become a frozen asset. Neither should a man think ill of the universe. Men are built not for a season, but for a life. Keep in running order despite the cold winter, Mr. White concluded.

Kentucky's Champion Farmer Wins Thirty-nine Prizes

This is T. I. Smith of Cane Valley, Adair County, Ky., wearing a smile and 39 blue, red and white ribbons which he won on 39 exhibits of farm products at the Kentucky State Fair, held this fall at Louisville. Two large general exhibits of tobacco, wheat, corn, oats and truck products, all grown with special fertilizers manufactured by The American Agricultural Chemical Company, won first and second prizes, and he was awarded the Championship Prize over all other farm exhibitors for his record number of firsts. He intends to exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair.

T'was on a Black Friday That Slemp Paid Bet With Blue Coal

He felt blue and paid his bet accordingly with blue coal. At left is Hiram Slemp, former Secretary to President Coolidge, who lost an election wager to John F. Costello (right), chairman of the District Democratic Committee. The coal was shipped by plane due to the five hour time limit set by the wager. Miss Alice West is helping to unload the sacks.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Coal went up here after election—up at least 5,000 feet. And it was all because C. Bascom Slemp, former Secretary to President Coolidge, guessed wrong about who was to be the next President of the United States.

Mr. Slemp bet John F. Costello, chairman of the District Democratic Committee a ton of coal on the outcome of the election. What was more, it was agreed that the loser of the wager had to deliver the coal from the mine to the home of the winner within five hours after it was mined. Both gentlemen being cash and carry men.

Mr. Slemp was shown the mine where he was to win the bet. It was within the five hour time limit set.

My Favorite Recipes

EVERY so often, when thinking about favorite recipes, I find my mind taking a straight, irresistible course toward chocolate. Chocolate makes such grand dishes, and such popular ones!

This Chocolate Fudge Loaf, for example. It's a simple one-egg cake, but made with rich, unsweetened chocolate and with cake flour. It rivals any expensive cake I know. Here, too, are some new Chocolate Cookies, and—just to make you young again—Chocolate Fudge.

Chocolate Fudge Loaf

2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well, then add chocolate and vanilla and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 4 x 3 inches, in moderate oven (325° F.) 1 hour. Spread with chocolate frosting.

Chocolate Cookies

2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 tablespoon cream.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, cinnamon, and soda, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, chocolate and cream, and beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Chill until firm enough to roll balls, 1 1/2 inch thick on slightly floured board. Cut with floured cookie cutter and sprinkle with sugar. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderate oven (350° F.) 8 minutes. Makes 2 1/2 dozen 3-inch cookies.

Chocolate Fudge

1 square unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces, 2 1/2 cup milk, 2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup vanilla.

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt, and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue cooking without stirring until a small amount of mixture forms a solid ball in cold water (225° F.). Remove from fire. Add 1/2 cup vanilla. Cool to 100° F. Pour into greased pan 8 x 4 x 3 inches. Bake in squares. Makes 18 squares.

ALONG about this time of year

I find my choice of recipes moving toward those that use winter fruits attractively. I like to make temptations out of dulcians—turn these healthful, economical figs and prunes, dates and cranberries into really glamorous dishes. And it seems to me mold, old desserts and salads do that job very easily and well. Cranberry Mold is a delicious accompaniment to poultry or meat and will bring new lustre to your table. Sunday Night Pudding and Jelly Sahara, I think you'll agree, are just suggestions for any day in the week, and this new Fruit Pudding is worth trying, too.

Cranberry Mold

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, 1/4 cup boiling water, juice of 1/2 lemon, 1/2 cup celery, finely cut, 1/2 cup canned crushed pineapple, 1 cup thick cranberry sauce, sweetened.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill when slightly thickened, add lemon juice, celery, pineapple, and cranberry sauce. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold, on crisp lettuce. Garnish with double-whipped cream. Serves 6.

Fruit Pudding

1 package cherry-flavored gelatin, 1 pint boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup seeded raisins, chopped, 12 dates, seeded, finely chopped, 1 cup chopped banana, diced, 1/2 cup nut meats, chopped.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in fruits and nuts. Turn into mold and chill until firm. Unmold. Serve plain, or with whipped cream or sauce. Serves 8.

Jelly Sahara

1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup prune juice, 1/2 cup cooked prunes, seeded and finely cut.

Dash of salt, 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar, 1 cup cooked prunes, seeded and mashed, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add prune juice. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in 1/2 cup prunes, turn into small molds and chill until firm.

Prepare prune whip by adding salt and sugar to mashed prunes and folding into egg white. Turn firm gelatin molds and serve, garnished with prune whip. Serves 6.

Sunday Night Pudding

1/2 cup orange juice, 1 cup seeded dates, finely cut, 1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup walnut meats, coarsely broken.

Add orange juice to dates and let stand 30 minutes. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add sugar and salt. Pour over dates. Add vanilla. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in nuts. Turn into small baking powder cans or molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices. Garnish each slice with whipped cream. If desired, spread. Serves 6.

MACAROONS AND JUMBLES

Dainty bites to serve with tea, coffee or fruit punch—after Bridge, or when the Ladies' Aid meets at your home! Here are two recipes that you'll like:

Chocolate Macaroons

1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 1 can coconut, Southern style, 1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Combine sugar and salt. Fold gradually into egg whites. Fold in coconut, chocolate, and vanilla. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in slow oven (275 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Makes 2 dozen macaroons.

FIVE TALENTED BROADWAY STARS
HEAD FILM CAST

The legitimate stage contributed each of the five players who have the leading roles in "Night After Night," screen adaptation of Louis Bromfield's "Single Night," which comes to the Lawler Theatre Sunday, December 4th for 4 days.

George Raft, young actor who skyrocketed to movie fame with minor roles in "Scarface," "Madame Racketeer," and "Dancers in the Dark"; Constance Cummings, Wynne Gibson, Mae West and Alison Skipworth all had reputations on Broadway before they went into pictures.

Raft was starred as a dancer in "City Chap," "Gay Paree," "Manhattan," and Ziegfeld's "Palm Beach Nights" before answering the call of Hollywood. Miss Cummings won fame on the stage in the first "Little Show," and "June Moon" before going westward. Miss

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT

Gibson had varied experience in drama and musical comedy before starring opposite Richard Bennett in the legitimate production, "Jarnegan," which won her a film contract.

Mae West, who makes her film debut in "Night After Night," is one of Broadway's most colorful figures. She acts, writes, and produces. "Diamond Lil," "Sex," and "The Constant Sinner" are among her outstanding successes. Miss Skipworth is a veteran of over 100 stage plays, among them "39 East," "The Swan," "The Torchbearers," and others.

"Night After Night," which boasts their combined talents, is set in an old mansion in the Fifties, New York, which has been converted into a luxurious speakeasy. Raft is cast as the owner, a tough mugg who wants to make good in society.

"THE GOLDEN WEST" WITH GEORGE O'BRIEN
Janet Chandler and Marion Burns Have Leading Feminine Roles in Fox Film Based on Romance by Zane Grey

Zane Grey's "The Golden West," the romantic Fox thriller, brings the indomitable George O'Brien to the Lawler Theatre screen

George O'Brien and Janet Chandler enact one of the strangest romances in "The Golden West," the new outdoor photoplay produced by Fox Films.

in the first dual role of his career next Sunday, December 4th for 4 days. The opening scenes are laid in the old south where a family feud results in a tragedy and shatters a romance between the hero and heroine. The locale then shifts to the far west where the real thrills of the picture take place.

Torn from his sweetheart, the boy joins a wagon train going west and finally meets a pioneer girl whom he marries. When their son has reached the age of three years, Indians massacre the inhabitants of the entire settlement, saving only the child who grows up among them and eventually becomes their leader.

This accounts for a lapse of 20 years and in the second part of the picture O'Brien portrays the role of the young white brave. Destiny brings him in contact with the daughter of the girl of 20 years before, and their conflict of emotions is given full sway before the old romance of their forbears is rekindled in their own hearts.

Two New Actresses Seen

Janet Chandler, who has played less important roles in many pictures, portrays the leading feminine role. Marion Burns, who enacts a role scarcely less important, is a Hollywood girl who went to New York and achieved success on the stage before she was able to get into pictures. Others in the cast are Bert Hanlon, well known comedian, Arthur Pierson, Edmund Breese, Emmett Corrigan, Dorothy Ward and Julia Swayne Gordon.

The backgrounds seen include a colorful mask ball, a pioneer wagon train, Indian fights and massacres, a buffalo hunt and the spectacular burning of an entire village after flaming arrows are shot into the buildings by the blood-thirsty savages.

David Howard, the director, who has been particularly successful in transferring outdoor pictures to the screen also directed "The Rainbow Hrain" and "Mystery Ranch," in both of which O'Brien added to his popular favor.

IT TOOK COURAGE TO MAKE
"ONCE IN A LIFETIME"

The film industry's youngest executive is also its most daring. Carl Laemmle, Jr., 24 years old and the producing head of the Universal studios, has demonstrated in the past three years a quality of perception far beyond his years, and has exerted a very definite influence on the trend of motion picture production. He has, apparently, an uncanny knack of anticipating the wants of the theatre-going public.

At a time when the entire motion picture industry regarded the war picture as something to be avoided, young Laemmle embarked on the production of "The Fighting 69th," a picture which has been a box office success. Disregarding the forebodings of his associates, the youthful producer invested almost two million dollars of Universal money in the making of this drama, and later saw it acclaimed universally as the greatest motion picture ever made.

Laemmle produced "King of Jazz," the Paul Whiteman picture which set a high water mark in the realm of musical extravaganzas.

Similarly, the youthful producer inaugurated the present era of so-called "horror" pictures with the production of "Dracula," following it up with the even more successful "Frankenstein" and demonstrating again that a type of drama previously regarded as unsuited to the screen can really be among its most sensational successes. "The Old Dark House," a forthcoming picture carries on the tradition.

And now Carl Laemmle, Jr., has embarked on the most daring enterprise of his career. He has produced "Once in a Lifetime," a hilarious stage comedy which throughout its length is a biting satire on what are alleged to be the "goofy" methods of conducting Hollywood film studios. He has dared to hold up to mirth the industry of which he himself is a part, in a story which devotes itself to poking riotous fun at the weaknesses of the business, and says nothing of its strength.

The essence of appreciation of comedy is to appreciate a joke on one's self. This is the kind of courage and comedy sense that Carl Laemmle Jr., has. What other art or industry would have the confidence to do this so wholeheartedly? Think this over as you see "Once in a Lifetime" at the Lawler Theatre, Thursday, December 8th for 3 days.

Clive Brook in "SHERLOCK HOLMES"

Dame Fashion for a time lost a devotee, and one of the smartest young film stars of Hollywood took pride in the fact that she had not worn a dress for weeks and weeks.

Loretta Young, currently co-featured with Eric Linden at the Garden Theatre in the First National epic, "Life Begins," has just completed a period in which she wore nothing but night gowns.

Some time ago, Loretta was confined for weeks in a Los Angeles Hospital with an attack of the flu. Night gowns were the order of the day and night.

As soon as she was well enough to work, she went through the making of "Life Begins," a production which is filmed entirely within a maternity ward. Miss Young's wardrobe for the entire picture consisted of nightgowns—and nothing else.

Going from or coming to work, she wore nothing but slacks or pajamas—items in which her personal wardrobe abounds. She claims possession of twenty-five suits of pajamas for women. She means to stick to it even if all of Hollywood goes back to dresses.

Beautiful young Gloria Shea is happily cast as the celebrated tennis champion in "Women Won't Tell," the new Chesterfield production which is at the Garden theatre. For, although she weighs but ninety-one pounds, Gloria is proficient in many strenuous sports and has won many trophies in foot races. She is also an expert swimmer and rider. This charming young actress, who recently scored in such outstanding screen hits as "Life Begins," "Night Mayor" and "Big City Blues," has often been scored by beauty expert as possessing the exacting requisites for feminine loveliness and was selected by the late Florenz Ziegfeld for a role in his Paramount motion picture, "Glorifying the American Girl." It was in this film that Gloria made her film debut.

STAGE TROUPEURS LEAD
ON FILM-STAR ROSTER—STATISTICS PROVE IT

Richard Bennett Points to Stellar Cast of "If I Had A Million" to Show Effectiveness of Theatre Background

How important is stage experience to the successful film player? Richard Bennett, veteran of both stage and screen, silent, and talkie, puts the question, but instead of a direct answer, calls up statistics.

The discussion started on the set for "If I Had A Million," the all-star film drama picture coming to the Garden Theatre on Saturday in which Bennett is featured along with Gary Cooper, George Raft, Wynne Gibson, Charles Laughton, Jack Oakie, Frances Dee, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, W. C. Fields, Mary Boland, Roscoe Karns, May Robson, Gene Raymond and Lucian Littlefield. And, after a general swapping of experiences had been concluded, it appeared that only two of that cast of featured players, Gary Cooper and Frances Dee, were children of the film alone.

"If I Had A Million" boasts what may well be called a representative cast," says Bennett, "and a check-up of the stage experience of its various members is bound to be illuminating. There are the veterans, of course, like myself; like May Robson, who recently celebrated her forty-eighth year on the stage and who is remembered for "Lord and Lady Algy," "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," "Mother's Millions" and countless other plays; like Alison Skipworth who is forced to name her favorite plays—"39 East," "The Swan" and "The Torchbearers"—because she can't remember all the plays she has appeared in in the last thirty-two years; and like W. C. Fields, who has toured the world over in vaudeville and musical revues.

"Take the other members of the cast right down the line: Wynne Gibson was my leading woman in 'Jarnegan.' George Raft had stock work to his credit as well as work as a dancer in many musical shows. Jack Oakie was another musical comedy hooper.

"Charlie Ruggles was playing featured comedy roles in both dramatic and musical productions long before he made his mark in pictures. Gene Raymond, under his own name, Raymond Guion, was one of New York's leading juveniles, still remembered for his work in "Cradle Snatchers," "Joney," "Young Sinners" and other plays. And Mary Boland, whose first appearance was in "Strongheart," was John Drew's leading woman for six years and is almost up to the veteran class with the rest of us.

"That leaves only Gary Cooper and Frances Dee to represent those who started in Hollywood and have continued there. Still seeking statistics on this problem, I thought of some of the outstanding stars of pictures, and from those that came to mind at once, I divided them into their different camps. On the side of the movies, I put Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford (inspite of her stage work as a dancer), Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. And on the side of stage experience, I put the two Harrymores, Marlene Dietrich, Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis, William Powell, James Cagney, Edward G. Robinson and Herbert Marshall.

"I know I'm only naming a few. This thing could go on forever. But I believe that in any tabulation of successful players, the number with stage experience will outweigh those without. The stage at least gives its novices the advantage of knowing how to speak."

But on the verge of a positive opinion, Bennett stopped, remembering the extraordinary success of two young women named Bennett, Constance and Joan, neither of whom had any stage experience to speak of.

In "If I Had A Million," Bennett has therole of John Glidden, an eccentric millionaire, who decides, before he dies, to give away his millions where they will do the most good. The others in the cast are the beneficiaries of his gifts.

The way of the transgressor hard?

Quite the contrary, if the transgressing is done on a Hollywood movie set—in full range of the cameras.

Take the case of alluring Evelyn Brent who made her way to film fame and fortune by consistent cinematic wickedness.

It all began several years ago when she was signed by F. B. O. for a series of fourteen crook melodramas in which the seductive Evelyn sinned so successfully that she was signed by Paramount to portray still more abandoned ladies in such pictures as "The Drag Net," "Underworld," "The Mating Call," "A Night of Mystery" and "His Tiger Lady." More recently she has lent her seductive charm to "Madonna of the Streets," "Slightly Scarlet," "High Pressure," and "Pagan Lady."

In "The Crusader," the new Majestic screen drama at the Garden Theatre, the exotic star is cast as the respected wife of the crusading district attorney. Surely a woman above suspicion, you'd say. Wrong, unfortunately. For Wilson Collison's famous stage hit, scarcely gets under way, before a dirt-digging reporter in the person of Ned Sparks, sets to work on Mrs. District Attorney's past and unearth a sensational scandal, involving a notorious racketeer.

H. B. Warner plays the husband, and Lew Cody, the racketeer-lover, Walter Byron and Marceline Day are also prominently cast. Frank Strayer directed under the supervision of Phil Goldstone.

"Rockabye" gives us a new Constance Bennett in a new type of story which enables her to give us her usual high calibre of acting. She is very capably assisted by Joel McCrea and Paul Lukas.

OLIVE BROOK IS GREAT DETECTIVE
IN SCREEN DRAMA

Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes" Has Become a Real Character

Perhaps no fiction character ever created has become so charmingly real as "Sherlock Holmes," created by the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, author of what is easily the best detective literature in English. The character of Holmes, Doyle has told us, was partly suggested by his student memories of Dr. Joseph Bell of the Edinburgh infirmary, whose diagnostic intuitions used to startle his patients and pupils. But there is abundant evidence that the invention of the scientific detective conformed to a fundamental logic in Doyle's own temper and his keen flexible imagination.

It was not until Doyle obtained his degree of Doctor of Medicine, opened an office as an eye specialist and waited for patients that never arrived, that he began to see the possibilities of "Sherlock Holmes."

Since Doyle created "Sherlock Holmes" he has had a host of imitators, and must be regarded as the literary ancestor of a large army of scientific detectives who have appeared between the covers of books as well as on the stage and screen.

New Story Screened

Doyle wrote the story on which "Sherlock Holmes," the new Fox picture, coming to the Garden Theatre Wednesday, Dec. 7 for 3 days with Clive Brook playing the role of the famous man hunter, is based. It was prepared for the screen by Bertram Milhauser, and William K. Howard, brilliant author of "Transatlantic" "Scotland Yard" and "The First Year," directed it.

The story depicts the experiences of Sherlock Holmes in dealing with American racketeering methods.

Gill

The Turners Falls Fire Department responded to a call Monday night shortly before eleven o'clock for a fire at the home of Homer LaMountain in West Gill, where they found a two-story frame dwelling house in flames. The blaze was so well advanced when the firemen arrived there was no use trying to save the house. The firemen were under the command of Chief Charles Early. The loss was about $4,000, partly covered by insurance. Mr. LaMountain and his son Leo were at home asleep when the fire broke out and they saved only a little clothing and bedding. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

The newly organized Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational Church will give a bean supper and entertainment in Gill Town Hall, Friday, Dec. 2.

Rehearsals have begun for a Christmas cantata to be given by the Federated choir. Einar Oftedal is leader.

There will be some entries from this section in the baby chick and egg show scheduled for Jan. 10 to 13 at Concord.

Temperatures of zero and below the past few nights have put this section in the grip of one of the coldest late Novembers Winchester can remember.

BERNARDSTON1933 Registrations
For Autos Ready

Motor vehicle license plates for 1933 are being issued at the Greenfield branch of the registry of motor vehicles on Federal street, and so far 40 sets have been given out. The plates are green with white letters.

Plates distributed from the Greenfield office start with number 200,001 for passenger cars and 30,001 for trucks. Last year Greenfield passenger car numbers started with 213,001 and 9,500 were issued through the local office, together with 1,700 truck plates. The 1932 registration through the local office showed a slight drop.

Drivers may register their cars at any office of the registry, but the Greenfield branch draws its applications for the most part from Charlestown east to Athol, and from the Vermont line south about halfway to Northampton. The 1933 plates must be on the cars by Jan. 1, the local office has announced.

An innovation next year will be the use of green ink instead of red on all registrations and licenses. Because the registry keeps such papers as licenses for two years, changing the color of ink to match the color of the plates is expected to aid the handling of papers.

Universal Bible Sunday

Governor Joseph P. Ely urges the observance of Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 4, by the churches of Massachusetts.

The American Bible Society, an international and interdenominational agency engaged in the circulating of the Scriptures, and which last year put into distribution nearly ten million volumes of Scriptures in fifty different countries and in upwards of 200 languages, has promoted Universal Bible Sunday for over a decade. Many churches in America and in foreign lands will unite in the observance of Universal Bible Sunday in order to emphasize the important place the Bible holds in the development of Christian life and character.

In commending Universal Bible Sunday Governor Ely says: "I am happy to commend Universal Bible Sunday, and I trust that its observance will be general. 'I am glad to commend any movement which is directed towards securing a more nearly universal reading and study of the Bible. The teachings of this Book have profoundly influenced the spiritual and moral life of hundreds of millions of people. Upon its teachings the society of our day must depend for its inspiration and guidance.'"

Propose Drastic
Motor Truck Law

A petition filed with the house clerk at the state house proposes a drastic new tax to be imposed upon owners of certain motor trucks used on the highways for transportation of certain goods. The money collected would accrue to the state and revert to cities and towns in proportion to their state tax assessments.

The proposed law would require that all trucks or trailers of more than two tons using the highways for transportation of merchandise, equipment of all kinds for hire shall, before registration, first secure a permit from state department of public utilities.

Every owner of a truck body or trailer of this size would have to file a request for a permit with the utilities department to register, and such trucks not used outside a 20-mile radius would not have to pay a fee. If used outside such radius, the utilities department would issue a permit upon the filing of a bond of $1,000 payable to the commonwealth and agreement of the applicant to pay the commonwealth one cent per ton a mile for all tonnage hauled over the highways of the commonwealth. Returns would have to be made within 15 days of the last day of the preceding month, the utilities department to make the collections from trucks and other states before issuing the permit, and designate the route these trucks would travel on the permit. No permit would be issued for use of a main artery of travel between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday, thus leaving the highways free for pleasure cars.

All fees collected would be returned to cities and towns in proportion to the amount of state tax paid by them and used by them for general purposes.

Fruit Growers
To Hold Meeting

The annual meeting of the Franklin County Fruit Growers Association will be held at the Town Hall, Shelburne Falls, at 7.30 p. m. December 1. Professor W. H. Thies and Professor A. I. Bourne will be the speakers of the evening and they will discuss the control of apple insects and diseases. A moving picture film illustrating orchard practices in spraying in Franklin County and leading orchards of New England will be shown for the first time. The Franklin County Extension Service has been one of the sponsors in producing this film and it is hoped that it will be one of the most practical methods of teaching improved orchard practices in spraying.

Fruit growers here will see just how the best orchardists do the work and will be enabled to select such practices as will improve their own methods as well as if they took a long trip during the spraying season and visited those orchardists who are most successful in controlling orchard troubles. It is expected there will be a large attendance of apple growers present. Election of officers will be held.

License Plates Issued

License plates are being issued at the Greenfield motor vehicle registry and to date some 40 sets have been given out. The new plates are green with white letters. Passenger car numbers run from 200,001 and from 30,001 for trucks.

Automobile owners should arrange for their insurance on their cars as early as possible and secure their plates early to avoid congestion and waiting.
